JOHN BROADWOOD and SONS,
Class 780.5 Book C457 no. 4

"A pianist on the Castle
for the Keyboard of Music—Extract from" Ledger, 22nd Aug. 1895

Orpheus, with his lute, made trees

And the mountain tops that freeze
Bow themselves—so Shakespeare sings;
Broadwood taught the Lyre to please,
Enlarged its scale and added keys,
And some two hundred strings!

THE ARTIST'S LIBRARY.

Edited by LAURENCE BINYON.

The Volumes of The Artist's Library are Foolscap Quartos (8½ x 6½ inches). The Letterpress is on antique laid paper. The Illustrations are all separately printed. The Binding is white cloth with blue sides. The price is 2s. 6d. net, each Volume.

NOW READY.

HOKUSAI. By C. J. HOLMES. With Twenty Full-page Plates, including Four Plates printed in Colours.

The Manchester Guardian.—"The first of what promises to be an admirable series. . . Mr. Holmes does full justice to his subject."

The Westminster Gazette.—"Really essential to the collector of Japanese prints."

Le Mercure de France.—"Ce beau volume est nécessaire à tous les artistes et à tous ceux qui aiment l'art."

GIOVANNI BELLINI. By ROGER E. FRY. With Twenty-three Full-page Plates, including Three Photogravures.

Literature.—"A model of its kind. It is beautifully printed and bound, and both letterpress and illustrations are exceptionally good."

The Spectator.—"An excellent piece of work. . . The criticisms, technical and æsthetic, are alike admirable in their clearness and reasonableness, and the fact that the author is a painter himself gives this work a value that the art criticisms of merely literary critics seldom possess."

The Times.—"Mr. Binyon's series is evidently aiming at a high ideal of scholarship. . . Mr. Fry goes to work in the right way."
